the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has grown from 10% of the economy to 17% of the economy.

There are a number of reasons for this increase. One of the main reasons is the increasing demand for public services, particularly in the areas of health and social care. Another reason is the increasing need for public services to be funded, particularly in the areas of health and social care.

There are a number of ways in which the public sector can be funded. One way is through taxation. Another way is through borrowing. A third way is through the sale of public assets.

There are a number of advantages and disadvantages to each of these ways of funding the public sector. Taxation is the most common way of funding the public sector, but it can be unpopular. Borrowing can be a quick way to raise money, but it can also be expensive. The sale of public assets can be a way to raise money, but it can also be controversial.

There are a number of ways in which the public sector can be managed. One way is through a central government. Another way is through a local government. A third way is through a private company.

There are a number of advantages and disadvantages to each of these ways of managing the public sector. Central government is the most common way of managing the public sector, but it can be slow. Local government can be a quicker way to manage the public sector, but it can also be more expensive. Private companies can be a way to manage the public sector, but they can also be more focused on profit.

There are a number of ways in which the public sector can be improved. One way is through better management. Another way is through better funding. A third way is through better services.

There are a number of advantages and disadvantages to each of these ways of improving the public sector. Better management can be a way to improve the public sector, but it can also be more expensive. Better funding can be a way to improve the public sector, but it can also be more expensive. During a tense moment in a game, Mr. Manis can be seen giving his boys last-minute instructions for victory.

A highlight of the Christmas program was this trio of carolers.

Both diligence and mischievousness can be found in Mrs. Eaton's Senior English class.

Many interesting movies are seen throughout the year in different classes.

Carolyn Warren, our team's mascot, can be found at every game, leading yells with the varsity cheerleaders.

The Bombers rebound against Brook.

Students gather in the study hall in the morning and at noon to exchange news.

Selling tickets at football games is one of the many extra-curricular duties of our teachers.

Band students practice diligently under Mr. Mau's direction.

German exchange student Fritz Jantschke, with the help of speech students, makes a recording of his reading.

Homecoming At

As a result of the hard work of the cheerleaders and the co-operation of the students, this year's Homecoming was a tremendous success. Friday, the day of the game, was designated "Color Day," and all students were asked to wear red and black.

The queen and her attendants, the band, the floats, and a football team that won a splendid victory all added up to a most exciting Homecoming for the fall of 1958.

Cheerleaders lead yells from the courthouse steps.

The marching band is preceded by strutting twirlers.

R. H. S.

The big game starts with a Bomber running through a hoop held by two of our cheerleaders.

Coach Mathias gives last-minute instructions to Jerry Ramp.

It looks as if it's all the way for a touchdown.

Alan Hurley seems to be in command of the situation involving foreign spy Paul Bilyeu.

Senior Play

A lonely island is the setting for "Ghost Wanted," a mystery-comedy. A monster, supposedly the zombie of the dead fisherman, Simon Gore, appears frequently, adding a frightening note to the mysterious happenings on the island owned by Granny Kate, who lives there with her two grand-daughters. These mysterious happenings turn out to be the workings of a foreign spy ring.

Carolyn Rowan and Mary Ann Kresler are so absorbed in their fear of Linda McCorkel that they are unaware of Dave Taylo, who is threatening danger.

The ghost seems quite interested in the conversation between Steve Henley and Jim Brinson.

Jim Beaver, Penny Sage, Patsy Harrison, and Janice Hensler are aghast when Helen Stephenson suddenly faints.

Junior Play

Confusion and jealousy occur when a "Kissin' Cousin" comes from the deep South for a visit and turns out to be most attractive indeed. After playing havoc with the love life of her teenage cousin and her girl friends, the Southern belle is taken back home by a real Southern gentleman.

Sandy Northcutt and Suellen Brunsahan look on as Dick Scharf fits a piece into a complex puzzle.

Jim Brinson tries to reason with the distraught Kay Pullin.

Joyce Shumaker and Dave Anderson are unaware of Jim Beaver's glare.

Prom Magic

Time out for punch and conversation.

King Bob Phegley and Queen Joy Phegley preside over a group of prom goers, gaily scrambling for balloons.
